Greetings from the MacColl Center
Hello, friends and partners! We hope this finds you all well and doing all you can to stay safe during these unprecedented times. We’re reaching out today to share some important updates and let you know where we’ll be focusing our efforts for the coming year.

MacColl scientists to lead network that addresses Kaiser Permanente members' social needs
Kaiser Permanente’s National Community Health Research Institute Program recently named Katie Coleman and Cara Lewis as the new co-directors of SONNET, the Social Needs Network for Evaluation and Translation. SONNET helps Kaiser Permanente researchers, leaders, and medical professionals design, evaluate, and learn from initiatives that address essential needs such as social connection, food, housing, and transportation. SONNET comprises experts with experience in innovative efforts to advance value-based payment and care in the safety net.

New resources to help with social needs during COVID-19
What defines outstanding primary care leadership? MacColl Director Katie Coleman describes how the COVID-19 pandemic ushered in a new normal at the MacColl Center in the last year. How will the Center continue to make it thrive. We’re reaching out today to share some good news—including exciting innovation update and to let you know what’s been going on at the MacColl Center in the last year. For virtual care, the future is now: Telemedicine transformation. How the Center became a global pioneer in health care innovation update.

What defines outstanding primary care leadership? MacColl Director Katie Coleman describes how the COVID-19 pandemic ushered in a new normal at the MacColl Center in the last year. How will the Center continue to make it thrive. We’re reaching out today to share some good news—including exciting innovation update and to let you know what’s been going on at the MacColl Center in the last year.

Stay in touch
Want to know what we’re working on? Subscribe to our list.

Kaiser Permanente Washington Health Research Institute
1730 Minor Avenue
Suite 1600
Seattle, WA 98101

maccoll@kp.org

© 2020

View this email
Got this as a forward?
Manage

Share this email: